

As a teammate, I have participated every meeting of our team. One of my teammate was assigned to do part zero of the project, but the result was not what we wanted. Since the first attempt did not meet the requirement, I did part zero all over again. I have also participated in drawing the diagram of data model and worked on adding mock data.

I was confused about content in part two, especially about how to relate project 1 to this project.

I was not able to do much, since my understanding on this part was not enough. I believe my teammates have done most of the heavy works. I will say that overall I have done about 5% – 15% of the works.
